

Sikeston Needs Sponsoring Agency for Community Center

Construction of a community center, which could be used as an activities building for all ages, depends on whether a sponsoring agency can be found, Bill Hanna, director of the Sikeston Housing Authority relates.

Plans for the center were prepared in conjunction with plans for 75 housing units for elderly persons.

The Community Action Agency in Sikeston agreed to sponsor the programming of the center when the original plans were made, but the CAA since has been closed due to a cutoff of Office of Economic Opportunity funds.

In an effort to find a sponsor, 27 civic and fraternal organizations have been invited to be represented at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the city administration building. The speaker will be Robert C. Lindstrom, director of the aging, department of Community Affairs, Jefferson City.

Representatives of the 27

Sikeston clubs have been sent written invitations explaining that in the Sikeston Housing Authority's present expansion program there is the opportunity to acquire funds of approximately $90,000 for construction of the center.

"In order to obtain these funds it is necessary that the community justify the need for the facilities and obtain a sponsor for the programming.

"These facilities will be for the use of the entire city including tenants of public housing," the letter states.

The center is planned to occupy 3,516 square feet. If approval is received, the center will be built on a building for the Scott County Public Health Service and the Housing Authority Administration office. The building will be located at Cresap and Franklin streets near 25 of the 75 units for the elderly to be constructed and completed no later than June, 1969.

Space for the public health service and the Housing Authority office has been justified and will be built. In the architect's drawing, the two agencies would occupy 1,956 square feet on the right side of the above pictured building.

The community center would occupy more than half of the building on the left side.

Total size of the building is 5,472 square feet. It is one building under one roof, although it looks as if it is three separate units because of the roof's exterior design.

The activities to be conducted in the center and the equipment and supplies needed will depend on the programming established by the sponsoring agency, Hanna said.

The sponsoring agency must be responsible for five functions: Staffing, materials and supplies, utility expenses, liability insurance and janitorial service.

Staffing would entail the providing of a program coordinator and part time secretary (salaried or volunteer) to carry out a program of recreational and social activities necessary to serve the community center.

The sponsoring agency must also be responsible to furnish the center sufficient materials and supplies as may be necessary to carry out the program.

Utility expenses of the community center space must be borne by the sponsoring agency unless otherwise provided for, Sikeston Council on the Arts to and a minimum of $50/100,000 owner landlord liability insurance must be paid.

The Sikeston Housing Authority provides the same coverage to all its units at a total cost of less than $70 a year.

The sponsoring agency of the community center in Poplar Bluff sent five representatives to Sikeston for a meeting about three weeks ago. The meeting was aimed at convincing the Sikeston Council on the Arts to be sponsor for the program here. But because of the makeup of the council, it was found to be an unlikely sponsor, Hanna said.

But the sponsors of the Poplar Bluff program reported at the meeting that during the past five years they have not spent anything to sponsor the program. The necessary money was obtained by applying for federal funds under the Older Americans Act.

Kennedy Leaps Into Presidential Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy charged into the contest today to wrest the Democratic presidential nomination from President Johnson, saying the country is on "a perilous course."

The New York senator's entry into the race at a crowded televised news conference pits him against a fellow Roman Catholic and Vietnam war critic, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota.

Kennedy said his entry against Johnson, the man chosen by his assassinated brother, was not in opposition to the individual but to his policies.

But he added the only way to change the "disastrous, divisive" policies of the Johnson administration is to oppose the man himself.

Kennedy said he will enter his name in the June 2 California primary, and also those in Oregon May 28 and Nebraska May 14 because the laws of those states require that his name go on the ballot.

He stated at the same time he intends to "both support and expand his (McCarthy's) valiant campaign." He called for the biggest possible majorities for McCarthy in primaries next month in Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

Kennedy said he made clear to McCarthy that "my candidacy would not be in opposition to his, but in harmony."

"My desire is not to divide the strength of those forces seeking a change, but to increase," the New Yorker senator said.

"Finally, my decision reflects no personal animosity or disrespect toward President Johnson. He served President Kennedy with the utmost loyalty and was extremely kind to me and members of my family in the difficult months which followed the events of November 1963."

Seated behind Kennedy at a large table were his wife Ethel and some of his 10 children. Although the children watched their father attentively, one twirled his arms through the air from time to time.

Mrs. Kennedy watched her husband closely as he answered reporters' questions.

The large room was jammed, when Kennedy came in, he was greeted by applause and at the end of his formal statement he again got an ovation.

Asked if he thought he could work toward his goals as Johnson's 1968 running mate, Kennedy said no, and that he doubted Johnson could work toward his goals with him on the ticket. This brought a round of laughter.

Kennedy said he avoided the New Hampshire primary because if he had won it or had done well, it would have been reported as a personal feud with Johnson.

He was asked if his entry into the race now would divide the Democratic party, assure Johnson's renomination and pave the way for election of a Republican President.

Kennedy replied he had given deep thought to this. But he said his objective is to broaden the opposition to present policies.

He said he has listened to the nation's young people "about the war they are sent to fight and the world they are about to inherit."

He said the course of the war in Vietnam risks a wider war. The New York senator said, "I have previously communicated ed this decision to President Johnson" and late last night his brother, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., went to Wisconsin to "communicate my decision to Senator McCarthy."

Kennedy said he is running to "end the bloodshed" and to close the gaps in America between rich and poor, young and old. He said his aim was to make "America stand for hope."

LBJ Asks Budget Cuts To Meet Money Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked for new budget cuts coupled with his tax hike today as bankers of seven nations gathered to try to solve the world's gravest money crisis in 40 years.

"We must tighten our belts and adopt an austere program," Johnson said in disclosing the administration was meeting with congressional leaders to discuss the budget cutback.

An administration source talked in terms of an income surtax that would yield about $9 billion, to be matched by budget cuts of equal size.

Johnson's comments came as America's six allies in the London gold pool converged on Washington to discuss the hectic gold rush that has shaken the world's markets in the past two weeks.

The administration was expected to leave to Congress the thorny task of deciding where Johnson's proposed $186.1 billion budget will be pared.

"Hard choices will have to be made," Johnson said. "Some desirable programs of lesser priority and urgency are going to have to be deferred."

He said his long-stalled proposal for a 10 per cent surcharge on the income tax remained the key to the nation's fiscal responsibility.

The President told a business men's conference, "I appeal to the Congress and call upon the Congress—once again—to meet the urgency of the hour with the responsibility it requires."

Johnson's call for budget cuts matched a congressional drive toward the same goal.

That congressional move reportedly had the approval of Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., the potent chairman of the House Ways and Means committee.

Mills has admitted nothing publicly but is known to have conferred at length with Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., of the House Appropriations Committee. Mahon favors the double-edged plan.

But it remained to be seen whether those moves, buttressed by the secret seven-power talks in the mausoleum-like Federal Reserve Board building, would dissuade profit-hungry gold speculators from resuming next week their frantic assault on the dollar in the world's gold markets.

The crisis was generally regarded as the most severe since the stock market collapse of 1929.

Airtight security was assured for the weekend conference of the central bankers of the United States, Britain, Belgium, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands and Switzerland.

The session was to start at a 1 p.m. luncheon. The only communique, a board spokesman said, will be issued at the meeting's close sometime Sunday afternoon.

U.S. officials exuded calm confidence, meanwhile, that the nation's gold reserves will outlast the nerve and the resources of the gold hoarders who, for a frenzied fortnight, have been demanding gold for dollars—and hoping to enrich themselves by breaking down the dollar, key stone currency of the free world.

Congressional leaders echoed official assurances the $25-aunce price for gold will be maintained. Chairman John Sparkman, D-Ala., of the Senate Banking Committee predicted "it will be the speculators who suffer the greatest injury."

The senior Republican on the committee, Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, concurred. "We have more than $11 billion in gold," he said, "and I do not think private speculators can raise enough money to drain that out."

Johnson Says U.S. Will Win War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson predicted today that "We are going to win" the war in Vietnam and said "we will do whatever is required" to meet the needs of the nation's fighting men. An authoritative source said there will be a "moderate increase" in U.S.

troop strength in Vietnam.

The source didn't define "moderate," but did rule out anything along the lines of a buildup of 200,000 or more men which has been mentioned as the goal of military leaders on the war scene.

President Johnson told businessmen the U.S. is going to win the war, "hopefully at the negotiating table, but on the battlefield if we must."

The President said, "To meet the needs of our fighting men in Vietnam, we will do whatever is required." Johnson made no mention of what troop level he thought might be necessary in his speech.

He did disclose talks are underway with congressional leaders to trim the proposed $186.1 billion budget as one phase of an austerity program designed to meet the world monetary crisis. The budget cuts would be aimed at helping win passage of his proposed 10 per cent income surtax.

Some sources are talking now of a $9 billion tax boost matched by a $9 billion slash in appropriations.

On military manpower, one spokesman portrayed reports suggesting troop strength might be boosted by 200,000 or more as "dove scare figures" of a propaganda nature.

Vice Closes Around Cong Forces in Coastal Battle

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. infantrymen, in a hide-and-seek fight through rice paddies and sand dunes along the central coast, killed 128 Viet Cong guerrillas today, the U.S. Command said.

A spokesman said a company of the 11th Light Infantry Brigade, sweeping into an area that had been bombed minutes earlier, tangled with guerrillas this morning.

A second company was dropped by helicopters two miles to the north an hour later and heavy fighting broke out as the guerrillas tried to escape the tightening vise.

Helicopter gunships and artillery supported the advancing U.S. infantrymen in the running battle six miles northeast of Quang Ngai City and 330 miles northeast of Saigon.

The fighting broke off at nightfall. A U.S. spokesman reported American casualties as two men killed and 10 wounded.

In the war's biggest operation, centered around Saigon, the total of slain enemy troops increased to 474 for the first six days. Eighty-three others have been captured.

The latest clash was fought by soldiers of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division who killed nine guerrillas and captured three suspects Friday near Thu Duc, nine miles northeast of Saigon.

American losses were 2 killed and 10 wounded.

Earlier Friday, a combined American-South Vietnamese force killed 81 enemy soldiers in the biggest battle so far in Operation Quyet Thang—Resolve to Win.

The massive operation, involving some 50,000 troops, was launched Monday in five provinces north, west and south of Saigon.

LT. Gen. Fred C. Weyand, commanding the 56th battalion strike force, said the goal is to "cover all the principal populated areas so that the people will know that the government is still in control."

Friday's major clash, 20 miles west of Saigon, began when an estimated 500 guerrillas opened up with automatic weapons and antitank rockets on men of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment. The Americans called in artillery, helicopter gunships and jet fighter-bombers.

Infantrymen from the South Vietnamese 25th Division moved in to block enemy escape routes, a U.S. spokesman said. The fighting ended at dusk.

The spokesman said no Americans were killed but 21 were wounded. The South Vietnamese said their casualties were light.

At about the same time, other government infantrymen in the sweep operation fought a pair of battles 18 miles northwest of Saigon. They reported killing 60 guerrillas and capturing two while losing seven killed and 14 wounded.

Three Injured in Two Collisions

Two traffic accidents resulted in injury to three Friday. Two were hurt at the intersection of highways 114 and 60, near Essex, and the third in a three-car collision on highway 61, a half mile north of Portageville.

Friday at 4:20 p.m. on highway 60 and 114, a 1965 Chevrolet pickup truck, driven by Ruth Vaughn, 32, route two, Dexter, pulled out on highway 60, in front of a 1968 Chevrolet, driven by Randy Corlew, 16, Essex.

Injured were Mrs. Vaughn, who received cuts on her knee, and a passenger, Elaine Vaughn, six, who received a bruised forehead and a skinned left knee.

The injured were treated at the Como clinic in Dexter and released.

Mrs. Vaughn was given a summons for careless and imprudent driving, and failure to yield the right-of-way.

In a three vehicle accident Friday at 5:55 p.m. on highway 61, a half mile north of Portageville, Dewey Kiplinger, 37, Hayti, driver of a 1957 Chevrolet, received a neck and back injury, and was taken to Pemiscot County Memorial hospital in Hayti.

Kiplinger stopped for traffic to clear, when a 1967 Chevrolet truck, driven by J. Skies Woods, 61, Sikeston, failed to stop and struck the right corner of the Kiplinger car. Dennis Rowling, 17, Charleston, driving a 1965 Oldsmobile, then struck the rear of the Kiplinger car.

Hours for Chili Day Are Set

Chili will be served from 11 a.m. until 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Gourmet room in the Dunn Hotel.

It will be the Rotary club's annual Chili Day to provide funds for the organization's community projects.

Club members are selling tickets, which also can be purchased at the door.

Double Exposure for St. Patrick

NEW YORK (AP)—St. Patrick's day, because of the calendar, is getting double exposure this year from Dublin to Disneyland with Saturday-Sunday doing making it twice as much fun to be Irish.

Although St. Patrick's Day is not until Sunday, millions of Irish-Americans—along with Irish admirers—start their merrymaking today.

New York's weatherman promised sunny skies for wearers of the green as they march up Fifth Avenue more than 100,000 strong accompanied by 140 marching bands and skirling bagpipes.

Church dignitaries, including Archbishop-designate Terence J. Cooke, whose parents emigrated from County Galway, will view the colorful procession from the steps of St. Patrick's Cathedral.

United Fund Board To Meet Wednesday

No conclusions were reached on whether to again have a United Fund Drive next year in an open meeting of the board of directors Friday evening at the city administration building.

The board will meet again at noon Wednesday at the Rustic Rock Restaurant.

The United Fund drive this year fell short of its $56,000 goal, by about $10,000.

Viet War Concern Rated Chief Cause for European Gold Run

BRUSSELS (AP) — European concern over the Vietnam war's cost in money, as well as men, is seen here as a leading cause of the run on gold.

There is the basic fact that for 17 out of the past 18 years, the United States has been shipping out more dollars and gold than it takes in, thus causing a deficit in the balance of payments.

This deficit stems from several causes including spending by Americans on travel and remittances to relatives abroad, foreign investment by U.S. firms, on stationing of U.S. troops in Europe and U.S. imports on foreign goods. President Johnson has announced plans for plugging up many of the drains.

But many Europeans are fearful that the conflict in Vietnam will be much more difficult to plug.

"If they would only announce in Washington tomorrow that they are de-escalating the war," one economist who works here said, "I would be a happy man."

An economist who works here said, "I would be a happy man."

of the Treasury, has estimated that the war is costing the United States $1.5 billion a year in outflow of gold and dollars. This amounts to nearly half the deficit in the country's balance of payments.

Spending by the U.S. government and its troops in Vietnam, though much less than what is spent within the United States on the war, is different in that it puts dollars in the hands of Vietnamese and other foreigners. These dollars could eventually be drawn in the form of gold from U.S. reserves. Some of them may have already been drawn. In any case, they go on the debit side of the ledger when the U.S. balance of payments is being reckoned.

At least a few of these dollars find their way into North Vietnam through trade and Viet Cong "taxes" on businessmen. Those are certainly cashed in.

The war has also important side effects that have contributed to the gold rush. War spending within the United States has added hugely to the deficit in the U.S. budget. The result is a swing toward inflation, which makes foreigners nervous about the worth of the dollar.

Another side effect is the volume of extra imports needed by U.S. industry to meet war needs. Such imports must be paid for in dollars or gold—another drain on American reserves.

There are several possible developments, more likely than a sudden end to the war, which could slow the gold rush.

One would be progress on the proposed tax increase, seen in Europe as the test of President Johnson's firmness against inflation.

Another would be agreement on creation of a new form of international money to supplement gold: a system of special drawing rights on the International Monetary Fund.

Still another possibility is a pledge by the wealthier countries of Europe that their reserves of gold will be put on the market if necessary to keep its price at $35 an ounce.

One would be progress on the

Two traffic accidents resulted in injury to three Friday. Two were hurt at the intersection of highways 114 and 60, near Essex, and the third in a three-car collision on highway 61, a half mile north of Portageville.

Friday at 4:20 p.m. on highway 60 and 114, a 1965 Chevrolet pickup truck, driven by Ruth Vaughn, 32, route two, Dexter, pulled out on highway 60, in front of a 1968 Chevrolet, driven by Randy Corlew, 16, Essex.

Injured were Mrs. Vaughn, who received cuts on her knee, and a passenger, Elaine Vaughn, six, who received a bruised forehead and a skinned left knee.

The injured were treated at the Como clinic in Dexter and released.

Mrs. Vaughn was given a summons for careless and imprudent driving, and failure to yield the right-of-way.

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. infantrymen in a hide-and-seek fight in the war's biggest operation, centered around Saigon, through rice paddies and sand dunes along the central coast, killed 128 Viet Cong guerrillas today, the U.S. Command said.

A spokesman said a company of the 11th Light Infantry Brigade, sweeping into an area that had been bombarded minutes earlier, tangled with guerrillas this morning.

A second company was dropped by helicopters two miles to the north an hour later and heavy fighting broke out as the guerrillas tried to escape the tightening vise.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

An oldtimer is one who remembers when the town square was a place instead of a person

A Girl Scout is not a hippie; but she's not a square either.

She's the kind of girl who knows how to give a good party and how to pitch a tent. She's an articulate representative of the U.S.A. at international conferences. She's an eager worker in the slums and ghettos of American cities.

It's hard to put a label on this kind of girl. Maybe the best word for her is "involved." She cares about herself and about others. She's where the action is.

Her kind of caring -- and acting -- probably began when, as a seven-year-old Brownie, she adopted a tree in distress and helped make it grow. Then she helped a person grow strong. For a girl like that, the caring and acting and growing never stops.

So we'll leave labels for the hippies and squares. A Girl Scout is something else. Happy Birthday to her and to the almost three and three-quarter million members of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., -- a 56-year-old organization that is always young.

Now that all three Sikeston banks are offering a credit card service the so-called cashless society may evolve here.

The term "cashless society" is a misnomer. A large number of transactions will be handled as they are today involving use of currency, coins, checks and other traditional means.

But there is an atmosphere of change in the air, which employs computers increasingly and vastly reduces the paperwork involved in credit transactions.

In the next decade in Sikeston, coins may be useful principally to drop in vending machines.

Even so, carrying a lot of coins may not be necessary. This is particularly true if business establishments such as automatic laundries install machines to convert dollar bills into coins.

Of course it would be handy if there were a dollar bill or two in the billfold or purse.

The outstanding characteristic of a future system of electronic credit and money transfer not only will involve a reduction in paper handling but a reduction in transaction times, errors and costs as well.

The sophisticated Sikeston consumer will find that today's fist full of credit cards to meet the requirements of a variety of needs for merchandise and services won't be necessary. Cards will be reduced to one or two.

One might be used for cash transfer and the other for credit transfer functions or one card could be used for both at the place of purchase or anywhere else, including telephone locations.

Efforts to prevent fraud will be intensified. Various types of identification procedures will be available including photographs on the cards, signature comparison and voice identification.

Automated interbusiness transactions will be the other part of the system. This will be an extension of current accounting procedures, which already are being increasingly handled by computers.

One thing won't change. Funds must be available to pay the bills.

People who claim to know everything are rarely able to accomplish much.

The American Farm Bureau Federation's official news letter stated: "With farmers constituting only six per cent of the population, agricultural producers have some reservations about the long-run consequences of having their prices set by a politically-oriented government agency."

BAN STRIKES AGAINST GOVERNMENT

No person on a public payroll has a moral right to strike.

Strikes by public employees, whether policemen, firemen, teachers, nurses, garbage men or any other kind of workers, are acts of mutiny against our civil society.

They should not be tolerated. Any person who takes a government job at any level -- local, state, or federal -- should have a clear understanding that he is forbidden to strike.

This principle needs to be enunciated by candidates for office, including those running for President, and the issue should be decided once and for all by the United States Supreme Court.

The crisis in Carbondale, Ill., where city employees struck after the police force resigned in protest over their chief's dismissal, is just one of many intolerable situations.

The wave of teachers' strikes, the outbreak of sanitation strikes, and the recurrent threats of firemen's strikes in various parts of the country must be ended.

This does not mean public employees are mere chattels of the state, to be held in servitude against their will.

Any worker should be free to quit a job in order to seek or take employment elsewhere.

In the case of Carbondale, the policemen have a right to resign. But this means they have quit. They should not be rehired.

No group should be able to use mass resignations as a means of circumventing a law against strikes by public employees. This would be intimidation.

Public employees deserve and need proper machinery for airing grievances, presenting pay requests, and having a voice in working conditions.

An example of what can be achieved by responsible government workers is to be found in the Post Office Department. Members of the postal clerks and letter carriers unions are part of organized labor.

They have every union right except the one that no public employee should have -- the right to strike.

The need for presidential candidates to speak out on this vital domestic subject is apparent in the situation created during the recent New York City garbage workers' strike.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller overrode efforts of Mayor John Lindsay to end an illegal strike, and those striking in defiance of a New York state law were rewarded.

We urgently need a national law prohibiting strikes by government workers.

Congress should pass such a law, and the Supreme Court should rule to uphold it.

The alternative, which cannot be accepted, is an escalation in chaos.

The rule for public employees should be plain and simple: No strikes. One strike and you're out -- never again to be eligible for a job on a public payroll.

New Look. In Depew, N.Y., U.S. Secret Service agents who seized a printing press and rounded up two men reported several new wrinkles in the counterfeiting trade: besides finding a lithograph plate designed for printing phony tickets to South Pacific, they learned that the counterfeiting ring had been offering West Coast outlets their choice of either new or old twenty-dollar bills -- i.e., with or without the White House balcony.

The word "temporary" in the nation's capital often has a definition not found in the dictionary. All too frequently in Washington "temporary" eventually means "permanent." We can all remember the "temporary" wartime buildings, the "temporary" commissions that never finish their assignments, and surely none of us can forget the "temporary" taxes that have been imposed upon us. This phenomenon of government should be borne in mind when there's talk of new or increased "temporary" taxes.

Marshall Hollenbeck says:
"Quite a bit of the world's troubles are produced by those who don't produce anything else."

WASHINGTON -- The Union Pacific Railroad made a significant move in Cheyenne, Wyo., the other day which President De Gaulle of France didn't know about. Whether it interests him or not, it will interest other Frenchmen.

The Union Pacific took an ancient French boxcar which had carried forty men and eight horses up to the front lines in World War I, and put the car on a small grassy park alongside its Cheyenne Railroad Station. An Editors Outlook

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

THE VANADIUM LIZ/IE
by Jenkin Lloyd Jones
SIXTY years ago this week Henry Ford sent word to his dealers that a Model T was on its way. No one--not even Henry--thought that the T would change the world. But it did change, shake and turn it upside down. And the birthday is worth a piece of cake.

Some of Ford's dealers were not too happy about the announcement. The two-year-old 15-horsepower Model N (with its slight modifications R and S) had been a great success. It sold for only $600, and there was a backlog of demand. The dealers had no way of knowing that most of them were about to be made wealthy men and that franchises would soon go to Croesus prices.

IT IS NOT fair to compare Henry Ford with original thinkers like Newcomen of the steam engine, Faraday of the electric generator and Otto of the four-cycle motor. Ford was an inspired thinker, an intuitive, untheoretical mechanic, who had a whittling genius. He took other men's ideas and pared, carved and shaped them into great practicality.

But it is time to put rest one of America's most stubborn legends -- the legend that the Model T was a primitive pile of junk that swept the world kept because it was so cheap that you could afford to push an alling copy into the creek and buy a new one.

America called it the Tin Lizzie-Vaudeville theaters rocked to Ford jolts. "What time is it when two Fords go down the street?" "Tin after Tin." A farmer rolled up the tin roof blown off his barn by a tornado and sent it as a gag to the Ford factory. The reply: "It will cost you $42.15 to fix your Ford. What if you?"

The truth is that when the Model T appeared it was the most carefully researched car in the world. Originally, it was not cheap. First models cost $850. It triumphed because in an age when crankshafts snapped, bearings melted and axles cal-lapsed, the Ford kept running. Even when it quit, about 90% of the blacksmiths could fix it. And far from being a Tin Lizzie, it was a Vanadium Lizzie.

As Henry Ford recalled, the T idea came to him in 1905 when he picked up a valve stem from a wrecked French automobile after a race in Palm Beach. He knew nothing about metallurgy, but he recognized a strange, strong metal. Inquiry revealed that it was a vanadium alloy. He hired an English expert who knew how to make it, but no major American steel mill was equipped for the high heats. A small Canton, Ohio, plant finally agreed to try. After one failure there was success. The tensile strength of parts subject to high stress went from 70,000 pounds to 170,000 pounds.

EARLY in 1906, a secluded experimental room was built into the third floor of the main Ford factory. Ford laid down the Model T ground rules.

It would be light, strong, powerful and utterly simple. It would have 40-horsepower. Its crankshaft and axles would be virtually unbreakable. An ingenious splash-and-gravity oiling system would eliminate an oilpump. The driver would sit on the gas tank so that gravity flow would eliminate the gas pump. A crude but moderately successful thermal system eliminated the water pump.

A magneto would provide spark and lights, so there'd be no batteries. A revolutionary planetary transmission eliminated the gearshift lever, gave two speeds forward and even permitted you to ride the reverse pedal in case the breaks failed. The high road clearance kept the car going on the most rutted lanes.

IN THE first year of production, 10,607 were sold. Production doubled each year until 1913. In 1920 almost a million Fords were produced. Altogether Ford turned out 15,071,035 Model Ts.

It was an engineering phenomenon. A man like the DC-3 or the Volkswagen in which so many things had been done right that the basic design went on and on. The most marvelous thing about the T was the fact that it got steadily cheaper. The original price of $950 gradually dropped to $390. It was the poor man's way to work and the farmer's way to town. It created suburbs and killed the country stores. The Model T ruined interurbans and accelerated America's road program by at least a decade. It started state and national parks and made possible the shopping center. It turned every high school kid into a mechanic. You had to be pretty stupid not to understand the innards of the T. Sixty years ago this week the Vanadium Lizzie yanked the world out of leisurely orbit. Irritant, pliant, teacher, beast-of-burden and menage, it was a jolopy to remember.

by he found an elevator marked tight enough, the whole problem WHEN PATIENTS and entered. When it stopped, he was in a corridor facing a long row of doors of 300, think that violence is the names of all the common ailments. Selecting the one marked APPENDICITIS, he entered and saw that he was in a tiny room with two doors marked MALE and FEMALE. Passing through the door marked MALE he found two more doors labeled PROTETANT and CATHOLIC. He chose another door, entered and faced two doors, marked TAXPAYER and NON-TAXPAYER. Since he was in good standing with the government, he chose the door marked TAXPAYER. In front of him were two more doors, marked SINGLE and MARRIED. Since he had a wife he went through the door marked MARRIED only to find two more doors, CONSERVATIVE and LIBERAL.

With a sigh he opened the door marked CONSERVATIVE and fell nine stories into the alley.

Nine million is a lot of people to try to brush off.

With modern medicine doing so well at increasing our life expectancy, we'd better be careful about adding to the national debt . . . we might have to pay it off ourselves instead of passing it along.

A down-and-outter stopped a businessman to ask for a quarter for bus fare to a nearby town to get a job. The businessman asked if he hadn't given him a quarter the day before for the same purpose. "Absolutely right sir," the man replied, "but I didn't get that job because the bum that got it took a taxicab."

A professor who had taught for many years was counseling a young teacher. "You will discover," he said, "that in nearly every class, there will be a youngster eager to argue. Your first impulse will be to silence him, but I advise you to think carefully before doing so. He probably is the only one listening."

The used-car dealer was demonstrating an old heap. As he started up a hill he said to the prospective buyer, "This is the opportunity of a lifetime."

"Sure is," said the prospective buyer, "I can even hear it knocking."

This is encouraging news to those who believe that there is still time for a peaceful solution to the civil rights revolution and that the best hope for such a solution lies in support of the activities of constructive leaders like King.

It may also give some comfort to those who believe that if we just close our eyes and ears

The questionnaire also found widespread agreement with King's championship of non-violent protest. Of those interviewed, 62 per cent thought violence was "unnecessary" to achieve Negro objectives; 58 per cent thought rioting was "essentially bad."

NEW WORLD A'COMING?
Johnson's 'New' Man Might Cool This Red Hot Summer

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- One recent morning, big shaggy George Reedy, the former presidential press secretary, whose decency is as ageless and immutable as the Ten Commandments, walked out of his home here and noticed a spankingly new, gleaming white Lincoln Continental parked right in front of his door.

Legend has it that he ambled over, curious as to which of his neighbors had hit a mother lode of gold. On it was a note which said in effect: Here is a present for you -- Lyndon Johnson.

It was a glistering sign of things to come -- hard, endless work. The portent was right. The call came. The President wanted George Reedy to take a leave of absence from his executive post at the dynamic Struthers Wells Corp. and come right over for another stint.

Reedy's previous tour with President Johnson lasted 17 backbreaking years during which sleep was as rare as a day in June without pickets.

So George Reedy is the "new" man in the White House. This, too, is a sign of things to come. It means that there now is an account executive in charge of social crises which will rip the inner gut of our nation for the duration of this campaign.

It means that Mr. Johnson has called on the one man who knows his way through the maze of strikes, demonstrations, black rebellions, marches of the poor, civil rights conflicts -- and the contenders and pretenders on all sides.

It means, especially, that for the first time in several years, there will be someone in the White House itself, right in the inner circle, who knows the labor movement -- and can call its leaders by their first names.

It means that for the first time in the past few years labor chiefs, other than AFL-CIO prexy George Meany, will have someone to call, complain to, left off steam and sidetrack crises.

There has been no such man in the White House recently. Fact is that when the Western rails were struck some weeks ago, President Johnson actually turned to his closest comrade, Marvin Watson, officially the appointments secretary, to get a peace.

It will be difference now -- and it had better be. This nation can count on razor-edged labor crises--war or no war--which can shut down national telephone communications, the rail lines, the Atlantic and Gulf Coast waterfronts, and the steel industry as well as production of fighter planes, military uniforms, ammunition and guns.

These will scorch the expected

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
An oldtimer is one who remembers when the town square was a place instead of a person

A Girl Scout is not a hippie; but she's not a square either.
She's the kind of girl who knows how to give a good party and how to pitch a tent. She's an articulate representative of the U.S.A. at international conferences. She's an eager worker in the slums and ghettos of American cities.
It's hard to put a label on this kind of girl. Maybe the best word for her is "involved." She cares about herself and about others. She's where the action is.

Her kind of caring -- and acting -- probably began when, as a seven-year-old Brownie, she adopted a tree in distress and helped make it grow. Then she helped a person grow strong. For a girl like that, the caring and acting and growing never stops.

So we'll leave labels for the hippies and squares. A Girl Scout is something else. Happy Birthday to her and to the almost three and three-quarter million members of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., -- a 56-year-old organization that is always young.

Now that all three Sikeston banks are offering a credit card service the so-called cashless society may evolve here.

The term "cashless society" is a misnomer. A large number of transactions will be handled as they are today involving use of currency, coins, checks and other traditional means.

But there is an atmosphere of change in the air, which employs computers increasingly and vastly reduces the paperwork involved in credit transactions.

In the next decade in Sikeston, coins may be useful principally to drop in vending machines. Even so, carrying a lot of coins may not be necessary. This is particularly true if business establishments such as automatic laundries install machines to convert dollar bills into coins. Of course it would be handy if there were a dollar bill or two in the billfold or purse.

The outstanding characteristic of a future system of electronic credit and money transfer not only will involve a reduction in paper handling but a reduction in transaction times, errors and costs as well.

The sophisticated Sikeston consumer will find that today's fist full of credit cards to meet the requirements of a variety of needs for merchandise and services won't be necessary. Cards will be reduced to one or two.

One might be used for cash transfer and the other for credit transfer functions or one card could be used for both at the place of purchase or anywhere else, including telephone locations.

Efforts to prevent fraud will be intensified. Various types of identification procedures will be available including photographs on the cards, signature comparison and voice identification.

Automated interbusiness transactions will be the other part of the system. This will be an extension of current accounting procedures, which already are being increasingly handled by computers.

One thing won't change. Funds must be available to pay the bills.

People who claim to know everything are rarely able to accomplish much.

The American Farm Bureau Federation's official news letter stated: "With farmers constituting only six per cent of the population, agricultural producers have some reservations about the long-run consequences of having their prices set by a politically-oriented government agency."

BAN STRIKES AGAINST GOVERNMENT

No person on a public payroll has a moral right to strike.

Strikes by public employees, whether policemen, firemen, teachers, nurses, garbage men or any other kind of workers, are acts of mutiny against our civil society.

They should not be tolerated. Any person who takes a government job at any level -- local, state, or federal -- should have a clear understanding that he is forbidden to strike.

This principle needs to be enunciated by candidates for office, including those running for President, and the issue should be decided once and for all by the United States Supreme Court.

The crisis in Carbondale, Ill., where city employees struck after the police force resigned in protest over their chief's dismissal, is just one of many intolerable situations.

The wave of teachers' strikes, the outbreak of sanitation strikes, and the recurrent threats of firemen's strikes in various parts of the country must be ended.

This does not mean public employees are mere chattels of the state, to be held in servitude against their will.

Any worker should be free to quit a job in order to seek or take employment elsewhere.

In the case of Carbondale, the policemen have a right to resign. But this means they have quit. They should not be rehired.

No group should be able to use mass resignations as a means of circumventing a law against strikes by public employees. This would be intimidation.

Public employees deserve and need proper machinery for airing grievances, presenting pay requests, and having a voice in working conditions.

An example of what can be achieved by responsible government workers is to be found in the Post Office Department. Members of the postal clerks and letter carriers unions are part of organized labor.

They have every union right except the one that no public employee should have -- the right to strike.

The need for presidential candidates to speak out on this vital domestic subject is apparent in the situation created during the recent New York City garbage workers' strike.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller overrode efforts of Mayor John Lindsay to end an illegal strike, and those striking in defiance of a New York state law were rewarded.

We urgently need a national law prohibiting strikes by government workers.

Congress should pass such a law, and the Supreme Court should rule to uphold it.

The alternative, which cannot be accepted, is an escalation in chaos.

The rule for public employees should be plain and simple: No strikes. One strike and you're out -- never again to be eligible for a job on a public payroll.

The word "temporary" in the nation's capital often has a definition not found in the dictionary. All too frequently in Washington "temporary" eventually means "permanent." We can all remember the "temporary" wartime buildings, the "temporary" commissions that never finish their assignments, and surely none of us can forget the "temporary" taxes that have been imposed upon us. This phenomenon of government should be borne in mind when there's talk of new or increased "temporary" taxes.

The three lobbyists who testified before the House Commerce Subcommittee were: W. A. Straus of the Independent Natural Gas Association; Robert Hornby of the American Gas Association; and Kenneth C. Vaughan of the American Petroleum Institute. They proposed to gut the entire Senate bill with the following amendments:

1. No safety standard would apply to existing pipelines, only to new lines built in the future. This would exempt 700,000 miles of old and medium pipe.
2. Eliminate any criminal penalties for companies which fail to properly police and strengthen their pipe; also reduce the civil penalty from a maximum of $400,000 to $100,000.
3. Write into the law the requirement that the government use pipeline company standards for quality of pipe rather than government standards.
4. Put enforcement of safety standards under the individual states, not the Federal Power Commission.
5. The American Petroleum Institute proposed the exemption of all gathering lines -- in other words, branch lines leading to the main trunk line.
6. Eliminate a key provision of the Senate bill to give home owners and tenants the right to challenge inadequate safety standards.
7. No federal government reports on pipeline accidents would be made available for use by victims of these accidents. This would make it difficult if not impossible for citizens to sue gas companies in case of pipeline explosions.

Chairman Torbert MacDonald, Massachusetts Democrat, presided. He has been a critic of the gas industry in the past.

An Editors Outlook

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

THE VANADIUM LIZZIE by Jenkin Lloyd Jones
SIXTY years ago this week Henry Ford sent word to his dealers that a Model T was on its way. No one--not even Henry--thought that the T would change the world. But it did change, shake and turn it upside down. And the birthday is worth a piece of cake.

Some of Ford's dealers were not too happy about the announcement. The two-year-old 15-horsepower Model N (with its slight modifications R and S) had been a great success. It sold for only $600, and there was a backlog of demand. The dealers had no way of knowing that most of them were about to be made wealthy men and that franchises would soon go to Croesus prices.

IT IS NOT fair to compare Henry Ford with original thinkers like Newcomen of the steam engine, Faraday of the electric generator and Otto of the four-cycle motor. Ford was an inspired thinker, an intuitive, untheoretical genius, who had a whittling genius. He took other men's ideas and pared, carved and shaped them into great practicality.

But it is time to put at rest one of America's most stubborn legends -- the legend that the Model T was a primitive pile of junk that swept the world because it was so cheap that you could afford to push an ailing copy into the creek and buy a new one.

America called it the Tin Lizzie-Vaudeville theaters rocked to Ford jokes. "What time is it when two Fords go down the street?" "Tin after Tin," a farmer rolled up the tin roof blown off his barn by a tornado and sent it as a gag to the Ford factory. The reply: "It will cost you $42.15 to fix your Ford. What it you?"

THE truth is that when the Model T appeared it was the most carefully researched car in the world. Originally, it was not cheap. First models cost $850. It triumphed because in an age when crankshafts snapped, bearings melted and axles cal-lapsed, the Ford kept running. Even when it quit, about 90% of the blacksmiths could fix it. And far from being a Tin Lizzie, it was a Vanadium Lizzie. As Henry Ford recalled, the T idea came to him in 1905 when he picked up a valve stem from a wrecked French automobile after a race in Palm Beach. He knew nothing about metallurgy, but he recognized a strange, strong metal. Inquiry revealed that it was a vanadium alloy. He hired an English expert who knew how to make it, but no major American steel mill was equipped for the high heats. A small Canton, Ohio, plant finally agreed to try. After one failure there was success. The tensile strength of parts subject to high stress went from 70,000 pounds to 170,000 pounds.

EARLY in 1906, a secluded experimental room was built into the third floor of the main Ford factory. Ford laid down the Model T ground rules. It would be light, strong, powerful and utterly simple. It would have 40-horsepower. Its crankshaft and axles would be virtually unbreakable. An ingenious splash-and-gravity oiling system would eliminate an oil pump. The driver would sit on the gas tank so that gravity flow would eliminate the gas pump. A crude but moderately successful thermal system eliminated the water pump. A magneto would provide spark and lights, so there'd be no batteries. A revolutionary planetary transmission eliminated the gearshift lever, gave two speeds forward and even permitted you to ride the reverse pedal in case the breaks failed. The high road clearance kept the car going on the most rutted lanes.

IN THE first year of production, 10,607 were sold. Production doubled each year until 1913. In 1920 almost a million Fords were produced. Altogether Ford turned out 15,071,035 Model Ts. It was an engineering phenomenon. A man like the DC-3 or the Volkswagen in which so many things had been done right that the basic design went on and on. The most marvelous thing about the T was the fact that it got steadily cheaper. The original price of $950 gradually dropped to $390. It was the poor man's way to work and the farmer's way to town. It created suburbs and killed the country stores. The Model T ruined interurbans and accelerated America's road program by at least a decade. It started state and national parks and made possible the shopping center. It turned every high school kid into a mechanic. You had to be pretty stupid not to understand the innards of the T. Sixty years ago this week the Vanadium Lizzie yanked the world out of leisurely orbit. Irritant, plaything, teacher, beast-of-burden and mentor, it was a jolopy to remember.

by he found an elevator marked NEW PATIENTS and entered. When it stopped, he was in a corridor facing a long row of doors bearing, in alphabetical order, the names of all the common ailments. Selecting the one marked APPENDICITIS, he entered and saw that he was in a tiny room with two doors marked MALE and FEMALE. Passing through the door marked MALE he found two more doors labeled PROTESTANT and CATHOLIC. He chose another door, entered and faced two doors, marked TAXPAYER and NON-TAXPAYER. Since he was in good standing with the government, he chose the door marked TAXPAYER. In front of him were two more doors, marked SINGLE and MARRIED. Since he had a wife he went through the door marked MARRIED only to find two more doors, CONSERVATIVE and LIBERAL. With a sigh he opened the door marked CONSERVATIVE and fell nine stories into the alley.

With modern medicine doing so well at increasing our life expectancy, we'd better be careful about adding to the national debt . . . we might have to pay it off ourselves instead of passing it along.

A down-and-outter stopped a businessman to ask for a quarter for bus fare to a nearby town to get a job. The businessman asked if he hadn't given him a quarter the day before for the same purpose. "Absolutely right sir," the man replied, "but I didn't get that job because the bum that got it took a taxicab."

A professor who had taught for many years was counseling a young teacher. "You will discover," he said, "that in nearly every class, there will be a youngster eager to argue. Your first impulse will be to silence him, but I advise you to think carefully before doing so. He probably is the only one listening."

The used-car dealer was demonstrating an old heap. As he started up a hill he said to the prospective buyer, "This is the opportunity of a lifetime."

"Sure is," said the prospective buyer. "I can even hear it knocking."

Gramp, do you spouse it come from the heart when LBJ promised the people peace in 1964? Wal St., everybody knows soon as he got in he chickened on that promise. So's that would seem to signify that promise come from the gizzard not the heart.

For some years now the President has been harassed by the thought of an inevitable apogee of hysteria and labor crises in '68. To avert a national steel strike in the summer of 1965, he locked the steel labor leaders and corporation chiefs in the White House executive offices and ordered them to come to a settlement. He got one. The new contract was for three years.

When Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz reported this, the President retorted wryly: "Why doesn't the expiration date come up in his (I. W. Abel's) year, not mine?"

The references were to 1968 when, of course, the presidential campaign would be fought, and to 1969 when Abel's term would be up.

If any man can cool it, and Lyndon Johnson too, he is the 50-year-old George Reedy who won't be hampered at all by the brilliant ex-news-pewpewman, his wife Lillian.

To George Reedy, knowing the labor and civil rights movements comes naturally. He was born in the Inland Steel town of East Chicago, Ind. His mother's people were steel workers. His grandfather knew the mythical Eugene Victor Debs, socialist leader of the Pullman (railroad) rebellion and perennial candidate for president until Norman Thomas grasped the flaming torch.

It is "George," thus, who through the years took the calls from labor leaders when they wanted to react the Texas senator, the Senate Majority leader, the Vice President and finally the President of the U.S. It was "George" who in recent years helped settle the steel, rail, maritime and shipyard strikes.

It was "George" who ran interference on the Negro front in the early days for the Texan. It was "George" who first did the backbreaking work of the Equal Employment Commission, predecessor to the E.E.O.C.

All this, the intermingling of labor, civil rights advocates, militant black power leaders, liberals, socialists, high built shoe veterans of the "old struggles," is a world of its own in which one must have lived to understand it and the dead of characters.

As a son, a youngster, as a newsman, as a Texan's aide, as a White House executive, as a presidential confidant, "George" has lived in that world.

If any one man can in that typhoon-filled White House, George Reedy might be able to get the whirling competitive forces, old and newly unleashed, to come and sit reason together.

If he can do that he's worth all of Detroit's output for several seasons.

These will scorch the expected

It will be difference now -- and it had better be. This nation can count on razor-edged labor crises--war or no war--which can shut down national telephone communications, the rail lines, the Atlantic and Gulf Coast waterfronts, and the steel industry as well as production of fighter planes, military uniforms, ammunition and guns.

There has been no such man in the White House recently. Fact is that when the Western rails were struck some weeks ago, his President Johnson actually turned to his closest comrade, Marvin Watson, officially the appointments secretary, to get a peace.

It will be difference now -- and it had better be. This nation can count on razor-edged labor crises--war or no war--which can shut down national telephone communications, the rail lines, the Atlantic and Gulf Coast waterfronts, and the steel industry as well as production of fighter planes, military uniforms, ammunition and guns.

Cradle Roll Day Observed

Sunday was the annual cradle roll day at the First Assembly of God church. The theme was "Set Their Sails."

A sailboat motif was used in setting the scene in the sanctuary. Ropes and lifesavers were the decorations. A banner "Set Their Sails" was displayed on the wall behind the choir loft. The front pews of one side of the church was reserved for the parents and infants. The reserved area was marked by cardboard lifesavers with S. S. cradle roll printed on them. They were tied with pink and blue bows and ribbons.

The Sunday School superintendent, Ervin Taylor, welcomed the congregation and guests and then introduced Mrs. Evelyn Palmer, nursery superintendent; Mrs. Bob Ballard, cradle roll superintendent and Diane Hull, helper. Mrs. Ballard narrated the program. Miss Jeanette McDonough, the organist, played the hymn "Harbored In Jesus" as background music during the program. The soloist, Mrs. Arlene Garrett, sang a song to the tune of Brahms' Lullaby.

Each infant and its parents were introduced and were presented a gift. Their picture were taken.

The Rev. T. A. McDonough, the pastor, preached the sermon "Be Careful Little Feet Where You Go."

TCU, Santa Clara Nab Surprise Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A couple of upstarts, Texas Christian and Santa Clara, started college basketball circles Friday night.

The Horned Frogs of TCU upset Kansas State 77-72 and the Broncos bowled over the New Mexico Lobos, 86-73 in second-round play in the NCAA tournament.

Their surprising triumphs overshadowed Houston's 51-75 rout of Louisville, UCLA's 58-49 conquest of New Mexico State and North Carolina's 91-72 defeat of previously unbeaten St. Bonaventure.

Davidson edged Columbia 61-59 in overtime, Ohio State beat East Tennessee 79-72 and Kentucky routed Marquette 107-89 as the NCAA field was cut to eight survivors.

The results set up these pairings for tonight's quarter-finals at four regional sites:

At Raleigh, N.C.—Davidson, 24-4, vs. North Carolina, 26-3.

At Lexington, Ky.—Ohio State, 19-7, vs. Kentucky, 22-4.

At Wichita, Kan.—Houston, 30-0, vs. Texas Christian, 15-10.

At Albuquerque, N.M.—UCLA, 26-1, vs. Santa Clara, 22-3.

In other tournament play Friday, Kansas downed Temple 82-76 and Villanova whacked Wyoming 77-66 in first-round games of the National Invitation Tournament in New York.

Kentucky Wesleyan defeated Indiana State 63-52 in the championship final of the NCAA College Division tournament at Evansville, Ind. Central State of Ohio whipped Westminster, Pa. 72-51 and Fairmont, W. Va., edged Oshkosh, Wis. State 76-74 in the semifinals of the NAIA at Kansas City.

"We'll need five Lew Alcindors to beat Houston," said Johnny Swaim, Texas Christian coach, after TCU's upset over Kansas State. The Horned Frogs wiped out a 13-point deficit and went ahead for good on Mickey McCarthy's layup with 90 seconds left.

Swaim referred to UCLA's towering 7-foot-1 Alcindor who paced the Bruins over New Appaloosa Mexico State with 28 points. He obviously was thinking of a way to stop Elvin Hayes, the Big E spectable record than TCU but of Houston's unbeaten and top-ranked Cougars.

The 6-9 Hayes, voted Player of the Year in The Associated Press poll, turned in one of his greatest games as the Cougars thumped Louisville for their 31st in a row, 30-0 this season.

Hayes pumped in 35 points and had the better of his duel with fellow All-American Wesley Unseld of Louisville. The Big E got his points on 15 field goals and three fouls. Unseld finished with 23 points. Hayes grabbed 24 rebounds to Unseld's 22.

A fantastic 25-3 spurt in the first half turned a 12-8 deficit into a 33-15 Houston advantage put an end to Louisville's 12-game winning streak. Don Chaney's many steals "tore us apart," as Louisville coach John Dromo put it.

Santa Clara, with a more respectable record than TCU but ranked nationally like the Horned Frogs, opened a 20-point lead over New Mexico. The Lobos, though playing on their home court, never caught up. Bud Ogden, with 22 points, led Santa Clara, which hit on 11 of its first 14 shots.

Larry Miller's 27 points paced North Carolina over St. Bonaventure. The Bonnies had won 25 in a row, 23 this season. Davidson beat Columbia on Wayne Huckle's two foul shots that put the Wildcats ahead for good with two minutes left in overtime.

Columbia had a chance to win in the last two seconds of regulation time with the score tied 55-55, but Bruce Metz missed a free throw.

Dan Issel's 36 points sparked Kentucky over Marquette. Steve Howell got 22 and led Ohio State over East Tennessee.

Jo Jo White and three unknowns from Villanova, when pressed for an answer, mimic the words of Jack Kraft.

"Get the pressure off you and put it on them," says the Villanova basketball coach.

White, cool and calm, and the wildcard trio did just that Friday night, proving that a little reverse pressure can take a team a long way—to the quarter-finals of the National Invitation Tournament.

White, a 6-foot-3, sharpshooting, clever dribbling guard, led the Jayhawks to a rugged 82-76 victory over Temple before Villanova crushed disappointing Wyoming 77-66 in the doubleheader at the new Madison Square Garden.

"White handled the pressure Temple threw against him," said Kansas Coach Ted Owens. "He had to handle the ball against their pressing zone defense."

Time and again the senior from St. Louis single-handedly broke the Owls' press, dribbling through and around two or three players. That accomplished, he directed his towering teammates on offense and found time to team with backcourt mate Phil Harmon to lead the scoring.

He and Harmon both scored six points to send Kansas from a 41-40 lead early in the second half to a 53-45 spread while Kansas' own pressing zone defense held off the aggressive Owls.

"Most teams play a zone against us, but this was the best one we've faced," said White, whose club had a big height advantage. "I had some trouble bringing the ball down at first, but that was all."

Kraft had plenty of reason to be happy over the performance of his unknowns, who completely befuddled the Rocky Mountain visitors and set up deadeye teammate Johnny Jones at the baseline for many of his 38 points.

"Those three kids in the backcourt—Frank Gillen, Frank O'Hanlon and Bob McElmott—controlled the game," Kraft said proudly. "We knew Wyoming was going to press and we told those kids they would have to take control."

"They handled the offense against the press and they took care of our zone press against Wyoming."

"That 45 points in the first half was our best this year—almost a perfect half of basketball," Kraft said of the 45-27 lead that demoralized the Cowboys and wrapped up the contest.

Returning players from last year's team are Bucko Miller, Bob McCord, Hank Lippert, Brad Crumpecker, David Owens, Don Choate, Tom Davis and Alan Bryant.

McCord and Lippert head the group of returning lettermen, which also includes Miller and Crumpecker.

This week's practices have included a lot of running to get the boys in good physical condition and several intersquad matches. Practice next week will be stepped up in preparing for the first tennis match.

This year's team has a lot of experience and depth and if all goes as expected this should be one of the better teams in the area.

What Great Fascination Has Hockey for the Gals?

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Sin Bin Sally, an arresting platinum-blond, occupies a seat alongside the penalty box at nearly every New York Ranger home game. She holds a lively dialogue with the sentenced rogues. She also lectures officials on the finer aspects of the sport.

Sin Bin Sally is not her actual name, just a tag hung on her by other Madison Square Garden habitués. But, in fact, she is a striking example of a hockey phenomenon—the great, sometimes fanatical, interest of women.

In Chicago, one charming matron has bashed referees with her shoe. In Detroit, another femme fatale used a hairpin with similar intent. There's a lady of unimpeachable breeding who never misses a Philadelphia Flyer home game, and is described by a team executive as a "raving maniac."

A woman in Toronto who died recently hadn't missed a Maple Leaf contest in 35 years.

And a rival of Sin Bin Sally once tried to enter the Ranger dressing room after a game. But a Pinkerton cop fought her off.

"It's a woman's game," said Jack Adams, one of hockey's most venerable executives. "It's fast, they like the action and body contact. The rules are easy to understand and the games are now played in arenas as beautiful as theaters."

Chicago general manager Tommy Ivan and Maple Leaf boss Stafford Smythe agree with Adams.

"Once you take your wife or girl friend to a game," said

Ivan, "you're sunk. From then on, you'd better get her a ticket every time you go."

"One big attraction in hockey is that you're close to the action wherever you sit. In football, for example, you can have a seat three miles from the field. But in hockey there's a certain intimacy."

Smythe is a believer in the attraction of body contact. "Some people have said there is sexuality and sensuality involved for women fans," he said. "I don't know if that's true, but I'm sure they like contact."

Then he gave a kind of parable to prove his point: "You know, if women went on strike by saying to their husbands and lovers, 'No more contact until you end the war,' the war would be over in one day. They don't say it, so they must like contact. Right?"

As for sex in hockey, a Philadelphia psychiatrist said: "(There) is a combination of identification with the men on the ice and sensuality, a gratification or satisfaction of the sense of being (a close) part of it."

Cyrelle Levin, a comely fan in Chicago, was vehement against such an interpretation.

"I like the fast action and excitement and the grace of the skaters, but it's the unsexiest sport in the world," she said. "The uniforms are ridiculous."

"And those goalies! Forget them. They're all padded up and some even wear masks. They're as sexy as the Phantom of the Opera."

of Houston's unbeaten and top-ranked Cougars.

The 6-9 Hayes, voted Player of the Year in The Associated Press poll, turned in one of his greatest games as the Cougars thumped Louisville for their 31st in a row, 30-0 this season.

Hayes pumped in 35 points and had the better of his duel with fellow All-American Westley Unseld of Louisville. The Big E got his points on 15 field goals and three fouls. Unseld finished with 23 points. Hayes grabbed 24 rebounds to Unseld's 22.

A fantastic 25-3 spurt in the first half that turned a 12-8 deficit into a 33-15 Houston advantage put an end to Louisville's 12-game winning streak. Don Chaney's many steals "tore us apart," as Louisville coach John Drozmo put it.

What Great Fascination Has Hockey for the Gals?

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Sin Bin Sally, an arresting platinum-blond, occupies a seat alongside the penalty box at nearly every New York Ranger home game. She holds a lively dialogue with the sentenced rogues. She also lectures officials on the finer aspects of the sport.

Sin Bin Sally is not her actual name, just a tag hung on her by other Madison Square Garden habitués. But, in fact, she is a striking example of a hockey phenomenon—the great, sometimes fanatical, interest of women.

In Chicago, one charming matron has bashed referees with her shoe. In Detroit, another femme fatale used a hairpin with similar intent. There's a lady of unimpeachable breeding who never misses a Philadelphia Flyer home game, and is described by a team executive as a "raving maniac." A woman in Toronto who died recently hadn't missed a Maple Leaf contest in 35 years.

And a rival of Sin Bin Sally once tried to enter the Ranger dressing room after a game. But a Pinkerton cop fought her off.

"It's a woman's game," said Jack Adams, one of hockey's most venerable executives. "It's fast, they like the action and body contact, the rules are easy to understand and the games are now played in arenas as beautiful as theaters."

Chicago general manager Tommy Ivan and Maple Leaf boss Stafford Smythe agreed with Adams.

"Once you take your wife or girl friend to a game," said

Ivan, "you're sunk. From then on, you'd better get her a ticket every time you go."

"One big attraction in hockey is that you're close to the action wherever you sit. In football, for example, you can have a seat three miles from the field. But in hockey, there's a certain intimacy."

Smythe is a believer in the attraction of body contact. "Some people have said there is sexuality and sensuality involved for women fans," he said. "I don't know if that's true, but I'm sure they like contact."

Then he gave a kind of parable to prove his point: "You know, if women went on strike by saying to their husbands and lovers, 'No more contact until you end the war,' the war would be over in one day. They don't say it, so they must like contact. Right?"

As for sex in hockey, a Philadelphia psychiatrist said: "(There) is a combination of identification with the men on the ice and sensuality, a gratification or satisfaction of the sense of being (a close) part of it."

Cyrelle Levin, a comely fan in Chicago, was vehement against such an interpretation. "I like the fast action and excitement and the grace of the skaters, but it's the unsexiest sport in the world," she said. "The uniforms are ridiculous."

"And those goalies! Forget them. They're all padded up and some even wear masks. They're as sexy as the Phantom of the Opera."

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Chicago White Sox 4-2 and Baltimore Orioles 4-2. You'd think pitchers would let more topped Los Angeles 4-2. A man George Scott's size have his way. But they keep challenge ball through the middle," said Scott, "especially with two strikes on me."

So naturally, when Houston's Pat House put Scott in a two-home run of the spring Friday, strike hole with two men on in hitting the Red Sox to a 3-1 exhibition victory over the Houston Astros.

It was Scott's ninth hit in 17 at bats and it traveled pretty far for a man who has dedicated himself to stroking the ball up the middle.

In other action Friday, Oakland whacked Washington 8-4, a 3-1 Boston victory. The home Detroit shaded Philadelphia 2-1, Pittsburgh tagged the New York Mets 8-1, and Cincinnati topped Atlanta 7-5.

Also, St. Louis nipped Minnesota 5-4, California defeated San Francisco 3-1, Cleveland dropped the Chicago Cubs 4-3, and Dick Green also homered the New York Yankees beat the Bill Freehan's fourthinning homer snapped a scoreless streak of 30 2-3 innings pieced together by Philadelphia's pitching staff, and the Tigers went on to beat the Phillies when Dick McAuliffe scored all the way from first base on Len Green's two-out seventhinning single.

Willie Stargell and Bob Robertson snapped spring slumps with home runs as the Pirates ran over the Mets. Stargell was 0-for-12 before connecting in the sixth inning and Robertson was hitless in five swings before homering in the ninth. Both shots came with one man on base.

Two errors by Felix Millan and another by Bob Tillman helped Cincinnati to four runs in the third inning as the Reds rolled over Atlanta. Tommy Helms and Fred Whitfield drove in two runs apiece for the Reds. Three straight two-out singles in the eighth inning by Curt Flood, Bobby Tolan and Ed Spiezio snapped a 4-4 tie and gave St. Louis its victory over Minnesota. Flood also cracked a two-run homer.

Juan Marichal worked five innings and was tagged for two runs and the loss as California defeated San Francisco. Don Mincher drove in one run and scored another for the Angels.

Vic Davallio doubled, moved to third on a sacrifice and scored on an infield bouncer as Cleveland pushed across a 14thinning run to beat the Cubs.

Boog Powell drove in a pair of runs with two doubles and Dave Johnson knocked in two with a pair of singles as Baltimore beat Los Angeles. Curt Blefary also had two hits for the Orioles.

The New York Yankees stole five bases—three of them by Horace Clarke—overcoming 12 Chicago hits and five errors to beat the White Sox.

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER candidates in the American League include Bill Freehan, left, Detroit Tigers' catcher, and slugger outfielder Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox. Both are keys in their teams' pennant struggle.

A's Try New Home, Pilot

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — with its symmetrical layout and more convenient 330-foot foul lines will help the power production. Perhaps, too, it will put an er in eight years and a cast of promising kids who will be pitching staff.

Joe DiMaggio, the new executive vice-president, adds a little class to an operation that left transplanted A's looks bright with a new 50,000-seat stadium and a heavy advance sale that indicates a sellout for opening a 12-man staff in 1969, 1964 and day, April 17. The threat to the old established San Francisco Giants across the bay in windy Candlestick Park is real.

Nobody expects too much from the A's who have been in the cellar in three of the last four years, and Bay area fans are expected to be tolerant of youthful shortcomings.

"We can go only one way," said Manager Bob Kennedy, "rest will have to come from the exhibition games. We think we will be better."

"At least this year, it is going to be a challenge. Some of our players have been forced and it will take time and patience. But we have a good bunch of kids."

Actually, the A's were 10th on merit last season. They were last in pitching, double plays among Blue Moon Odum, 3-8, and hit fewer homers, 69, than Lew Krausse, 7-17, and left handers Tony Pierce, 3-4, and Paul Lindblad, 5-8. George Laizeriga, a 21-year-old Cuban who was 13-4 on the Birmingham farm, also will get a long look.

Jack Aker, a workhorse relief man who was sensational in 1966 but a 3-8 flop in 1967, is the key to the bullpen.

Kennedy seems dedicated to youth on his club. He will go with Ramon Webster at first, John Donaldson at second, and Sal Bando at third. All are second-year men. The shortstop will be Bert Campaneris who has led the league in stolen bases for the last three seasons.

If the youth program works out Reggie Jackson, former Arizona State star, will be in right, Rick Monday, the $104,000 draft pick of 1965 in center and probably veteran Dan Cater in left.

The catching is wide open. Jim Pagliaroni, the former Pittsburgh catcher, actually is on a minor league roster but he appears to have recovered from the neck injury that put him on the disabled list in 1967.

Pay or Phil Ruff could be No. 1 although the entire organization is high on Dave Duncan, a 6-foot-2, 200-pounder who hit .188 on a trial last year. Duncan hit 46 homers in the minors in 1966 and is regarded as the man of the future.

Jo Jo White Sparks KU To 82-76 NIT Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Kansas' Jo Jo White and three unknowns from Villanova, when pressed for an answer, mimic the words of Jack Kraft.

"Get the pressure off you and put it on them," says the Villanova basketball coach.

White, cool and calm, and the Wildcats trio did just that Friday night, proving that a little reverse pressure can take a team a long way to the quarter-finals of the National Invitation Tournament.

White, a 6-foot-3, sharpshooting, clever dribbling guard, led the Jayhawks to a rugged 82-76 victory over Temple before Villanova crushed disappointing Wyoming 77-66 in the doubleheader at the new Madison Square Garden.

"White handled the pressure Temple threw against him," said Kansas Coach Ted Owens. "He had to handle the ball against their pressing zone defense."

Time and again the senior from St. Louis single-handedly broke the Owls' press, dribbling through and around two or three players. That accomplished, he directed his towering teammates on offense and found time to team with backcourt mate Phil Harmon to lead the scoring.

He and Harmon both scored six points to send Kansas from a 41-40 lead early in the second half to a 53-45 spread while Kansas' own pressing zone defense held off the aggressive Owls.

"Most teams play a zone against us, but this was the best one we've faced," said White, whose club had a big height advantage. "I had some trouble bringing the ball down at first, but that was all."

Kraft had plenty of reason to be happy over the performance of his unknowns, who completely befuddled the Rocky Mountain visitors and set up deadeye teammate Johnny Jones at the baseline for many of his 38 points.

"Those three kids in the backcourt—Frank Gillen, Frank O'Hanlon and Bob Melchioni—controlled the game," Kraft said proudly. "We knew Wyoming was going to press and we told those kids they would have to take control."

"They handled the offense against the press and they took care of our zone press against Wyoming."

"That 45 points in the first half was our best this year—almost a perfect half of basketball," Kraft said of the 45-27 lead that demoralized the Cowboys and wrapped up the contest.

He had to handle the ball

Oran Expected to Be Diamond Power

Baseball practice at Oran got under way last week. The Eagles are considered by most baseball experts to have one of the finer teams in southeast Missouri.

Twenty boys turned out for the first practice session, included were five returning lettermen from last year's 13 and 3 squad.

Heading the list is outfielder/pitcher, Rod LeGrand. He was one of the leading hitters off last year's team with a .300 plus average.

Oran's coach, Gene Bess, said this year's team would be built around a tight defense and a lot of pride. He also commented that the biggest question mark of his team's success is the pitching staff, and said that if it comes through there should be no reason for not having a successful season.

Coach Bess thinks his toughest competition will come from the Sikeston team and that Scott Central will make its presence felt in the area.

Oran opens its season against Kelly high of Benton March 26. The Eagles will play a 13-game schedule and enter the state tournament playoffs.

Beamon Wants Season to Go on; Ryun Ready to Rest

DETROIT (AP) — The indoor track season ends Saturday—too soon for Bob Beamon, world's best long jumper on the boards, and not soon enough for Jim Ryun, the best mile and half-miler on any kind of track.

"Just 11 more laps today and this indoor season ends for me, and I can't wait until it's over," said a slightly lame Ryun, Kansas' super runner who defends his mile title today in the closing session of the NCAA indoor meet at Cobo Arena.

Friday night, Ryun uncorked a typical explosive finish in his best two-mile ever to dethrone two-time champion Gerry Lindgren. But Beamon, the Texas El Paso sophomore, did even better with a sensational 27-2/4 long jump and became the first double winner in NCAA indoor history by adding the triple jump title.

Beamon, whose double came on a firing back-to-back effort, and Villanova's quarter-miler Larry James, also a sophomore, accounted for two all-time best indoor performances in the seven-event program.

James, whizzing to a victory in the 440 in 47 seconds, and Dave Patrick, retaining his 880 crown, paced Villanova's bid to dethrone Southern California as team champion.

Villanova carried a 16-point total into today's closing 10-event program, closely followed by Texas El Paso with 15.

Blood Donations

The American Red Cross, at the request of the Army and Navy, began collecting blood on a large scale in February of 1941. Its World War II wartime program collected 13,326,242 units of blood. Of this amount, 12,628,645 units were processed into plasma and serum albumin.

Bulldog Net Team Opens Practice

Tennis practice began this week for the Sikeston Bulldogs. The coach this year will be Roy Weichand. He believes the team's outlook for the 1968 season is bright.

Returning players from last year's team are Bucko Miller, Bob McCord, Hank Lippert, Brad Crumpecker, David Owens, Don Choate, Tom Davis and Alan Bryant.

McCord and Lippert head the group of returning lettermen, which also includes Miller and Crumpecker.

This week's practices have included a lot of running to get the boys in good physical condition and several intersquad matches. Practice next week will be stepped up in preparing for the first tennis match.

This year's team has a lot of experience and depth and if all goes as expected this should be one of the better teams in the area.

IT'S UP TO YOU

The Will To Win

Dr. Kershner

THE policy of placating the enemy and refusal to win the struggle against communism has already placed our country in great jeopardy. The strengthening of the communist bastion in Cuba proceeds at a rapid pace. At the Bay of Pigs it could have been eliminated with only a minor gesture — now it will require a major effort. Likewise, because of our refusal to win in Vietnam years ago when it would have been easy, we are facing an increasingly difficult situation there.

Our unwillingness to deal decisively with brush fires wherever they break out has convinced many nations of the world that there is no safety in depending upon an alliance with us. As that conviction spreads we shall progressively lose not only our allies but our friends, and will eventually be driven back to the concept of "fortress America."

Building up our defenses, keeping a crushing lead over the Kremlin in nuclear power, and developing an anti-missile system, while reluctantly putting down communist aggression wherever it appears, as we did in Greece and Lebanon a few years ago, would insure not only the safety of this country but of the freedom loving people around the world.

The alternative to this course is continued rapprochement with communism on a basis that will gradually substitute their system for ours. Some of our leaders in high places have been working toward that end for many years. The bulk of the American people have not yet awakened to the significance of this great change that is taking place. The Fabian socialists have so softened the self-reliance of the American people as to appear to make it doubtful if they are capable of rallying strongly in defense of their freedom.

Put a frog into hot water and he will immediately jump out unharmed. But by dropping him into cold water and then ever so gradually raising the temperature, he can be boiled without stirring a muscle. That's what's happening to the American people. We continue to hope, to pray and to work that something will shock them into a realization of this tragic situation before it is too late.

The Will To Win

THE policy of placating the enemy and refusal to win the struggle against communism has already placed our country in great jeopardy. The strengthening of the communist bastion in Cuba proceeds at a rapid pace. At the Bay of Pigs it could have been eliminated with only a minor gesture — now it will require a major effort. Likewise, because of our refusal to win in Vietnam years ago when it would have been easy, we are facing an increasingly difficult situation there.

Our unwillingness to deal decisively with brush fires wherever they break out has convinced many nations of the world that there is no safety in depending upon an alliance with us. As that conviction spreads we shall progressively lose not only our allies but our friends, and will eventually be driven back to the concept of "fortress America."

Building up our defenses, keeping a crushing lead over the Kremlin in nuclear power, and developing an anti-missile system, while resolutely putting down communist aggression wherever it appears, as we did in Greece and Lebanon a few years ago, would insure not only the safety of this country but of the freedom loving people around the world.

The alternative to this course is continued rapprochement with communism on a basis that will gradually substitute their system for ours. Some of our leaders in high places have been working toward that end for many years. The bulk of the American people have not yet awakened to the significance of this great change that is taking place. The Fabian socialists have so softened the self-reliance of the American people as to appear to make it doubtful if they are capable of rallying strongly in defense of their freedom.

Put a frog into hot water and he will immediately jump out unharmed. But by dropping him into cold water and then ever so gradually raising the temperature, he can be boiled without stirring a muscle. That's what's happening to the American people. We continue to hope, to pray and to work that something will shock them into a realization of this tragic situation before it is too late.

Barrow Show Plans Made

NEW MADRID -- Plans and preparations are being made for the 4-H Club barrow show April 6, sponsored annually by the Rotary Club.

Herman Crisler, chairman of the float committee, announced the club would award $50 for the best float, $35 for second place and $15 for third.

The parade committee is composed of Bob Seemann, chairman, and Dick Bartlett, Leroy Nunn and Jim Helms.

According to legend, the first king of Britain was Brut, or Brutus, reputed to be the great-grandson of Aeneas, legendary Trojan hero.

Increased Cotton Use Would End Crop Woes

By K. M. Streeter
Missouri Board Member
PAINTON -- If we can get enough people to buy and use enough cotton clothing and other items, we won't have to worry about market losses, acreage cuts, or dwindling profits.

The market for textile products is growing by a million bales a year in the United States and even faster abroad. Harness the tools of modern competition -- price, quality, and promotion -- effectively enough, and cotton can claim its share of these markets and areas like Missouri, where cotton is essential to a healthy economy, will benefit accordingly.

This is why the cotton industry is urging stores throughout the Cotton Belt to buy and stock more 100 per cent cotton products and consumers to demand these products.

When we participate in this campaign, we become an important part of the most intensive research and promotion effort in the history of the cotton industry. It is spearheaded by the $8-million allocation of the Cotton Producers Institute. Matching funds, moreover, from outside sources could swell the total to several times the CPI outlay.

CPI will utilize the staff and services of the National Cotton Council to carry out the program, capitalizing on the Council's long experience and eliminating overhead.

Council market research indicates that the appeals of appearance, maintenance, comfort, and durability are most important to consumers of cotton and competing products. Promotion, for which $5.3 million of the $8 million CPI budget is allocated in 1968, will point up these superiorities and hammer constantly on the "Comfortable, Carefree Cotton" theme.

The cotton industry will lay down a barrage of advertising to influence consumers, retailers, garment manufacturers, and textile mills to demand 100 per cent cotton.

To get the maximum impact on the largest number of prospects, approximately 87 per cent of the first year's budget will be spent for magazine and newspaper advertising -- $2,580,316 for more than 200 ads in national magazines and $1,202,144 for sharing 50-50 with local stores the cost of 6,500 newspaper ads.

Heavy promotion of cotton piece goods, clothing, and home furnishings will be continued with the major retail chains such as Sears, Wards, and Penney.

Also planned is the establishment of a central fabric collection where designers and buyers can see and select from a broad range of cotton textiles. The program to acquaint salespeople with cotton's strong points will be stepped up.

Television promotion plans call for 500 network broadcasts where items of "Comfortable, Carefree Cotton" are presented as awards on audience participation shows; live cotton fashion shows sponsored jointly with major stores; and continued production of movies centered around cotton fashions and home furnishings.

In terms of dollars, this promotional surge for cotton can't match the outlays of its giant competitors. When added, however, to cotton's advantages as a fiber and further backed by those who make and distribute cotton products, it can go a long way toward making Missouri cotton and U.S. cotton a lot more competitive.

McClanahan Takes First in Soybean Contest

CARUTHERSVILLE -- The first annual Pemiscot county soybean growers banquet was held at the First State Bank.

The banquet was sponsored by the Missouri Farmers Association, Production Credit Association, The First State Bank, The National Bank, The Bank of Hayti, The Missouri Delta Bank, and The Bank of Steele.

Johnny McClanahan of Caruthersville took first place in the 1967 soybean field contest and received $100. He had a plot of 7.1 acres of soybeans, and his yield was 52.76 bushels.

N. H. Whitfield of Caruthersville won second place in the contest and he was given $75. Whitfield had a yield of 49.02 bushels on 8.1 acres of land.

Third place was awarded to Tony Watkins of Bragg City. Watkins had a yield of 48.22 bushels per acre on 5.28 acres of land and he received $50. The three winners also received plaques. Both plaques and money were donated by the Production Credit Association and the five banks in the county.

Speaker at the banquet was Dr. Lee Duclos of the University of Missouri Delta Center in Portageville. Dr. Duclos is a research agronomist at the Delta Center.

Other entrants in the soybean contest were: L. Berry Farms of Holland, Carl Suddarth of Hayti, Gary Bruton of Bragg City, Pinnell Capelhart of Holland, and the Dolphin Land Company of Steele. Another entrant, Wesley Cole of Pascola, was not checked at harvest time. All entrants received framed certificates indicating their yield, acreage, etc.

Looking Back Frisco Passenger Train Hits Wagon

50 years ago
March 16, 1918
James Mayfield was seriously injured Monday afternoon by the southbound passenger train on the Frisco. Mayfield, who is a drayman, was driving across the Frisco tracks on Ruth street, when the train, just pulling out of the Sikeston station struck his wagon.

What seems to be an unreasonable order was received by the Scott County Milling Co., at Sikeston last Saturday, when the St. Louis office of the Federal Food Administration directed the local company to ship all wheat in its possession to mills in Tennessee. The reason given for the order was to equalize the distribution of grain.

C. L. Gardner of Peoria, Ill., completed a grain elevator for the Sikes-McMullin Grain Co., this week, at Kewanee. The capacity of this elevator is 20,000 bushels and is for handling ear corn.

A new U. S. flag, 5 x 9 1/2 feet, was received Monday by the local post office.

Free Love Game Criticized

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from "Miss Honest," the high school girl who believes in free love and sees nothing wrong with going to bed with a boy if she "likes him as a person."

That letter could have been written by me, five years ago. I put the same foolish arguments. Here is how my life turned out, and I am only 22. I was married at 17 -- three months pregnant, Bill and I have been married three years and have been separated five times. I started divorce proceedings six months ago and discovered I was pregnant so we called off the divorce and are trying to work things out.

I am so tired of sex I could scream. It used to be the beginning and end of the world and now I hate the thought of it. I realize I am not being fair to Bill and I am sorry.

I talked to my doctor about this and he told me that due to my early promiscuity I have become disoriented sexually and I need psychiatric help. I had to go look up a few words in the dictionary and what it boils down to is that I ran around so much when I was in my early teens that I sex lost its value and importance to me and now it is disgusting.

I hope Miss Free Love (and all the other young girls who think they can play this game and get away with it) will learn something from my experience.

Believe me, Ann, I am. ---Paying DEARLY

Dear Paying: Thanks for sharing. I hope you will take your doctor's advice. The first step is understanding the problem, and you do, so now get going.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 12-year-old son has been a nail biter since childhood. I don't recall ever seeing Buddy with his fingers in his mouth, at least not in the past five or six years, so he must do the biting in private. Yesterday he was walking around barefooted and I noticed that Buddy's toenails are also very short. They look very much like his fingernails. I asked him if he cuts his toenails with a scissors and he said, NO. What do you make of this? ---BAFFLED

Dear Baffled: Are you suggesting that your son bites his toenails? This likelihood is highly improbable.

There is a possibility that Buddy has a disease of the nails -- both finger and toe -- which stunts the growth. Take him to a doctor. If there is no evidence of disease, the boy is probably picking off his toenails and biting his fingernails.

Dear Ann Landers: I happen to be one of those unfortunate people who has terrible handwriting. I just can't seem to get the words down so people can read them.

Recently I sent a note of condolence to a friend whose husband had passed away. It was typewritten. I later heard that I had committed a grave social error. Such notes, I was told, in no uncertain terms, should always be handwritten. What about this? ---PERPLEXED

Dear Per: Better a typewritten note than a handwritten one no one can read.

Give in or lose him ... when a guy gives you this line, look out! For tips on how to handle the super sex salesman, check Ann Landers. Read her booklet, "Necking and Petting -- What Are The Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper, enclosing 50¢ in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Clothing First Program Topic At Oran Hall

BLOOMFIELD -- "Focus on You", the series of programs for young homemakers in the Oran area, had the first meeting at the Oran city hall with nine homemakers present.

The programs are being promoted by the Home Economics Extension club.

The first topic was "You and Your Children's Clothing". Jewel Grady, area extension home economist, textiles and clothing, presented the clothing information.

Miss Grady stressed the importance of wise selection of children's clothes and the psychological effect it has on children. She said, "Carefully selected garments help the child to feel more secure, confident, and satisfied. Properly fitted clothes for children are just as important to them as they are to adults. Garments which are too small or too large restrict his activities."

"Important features in clothing for children is neatness and color. Many times children may be happy with hand-me-down garments which are new for them if they feel it is a privilege to get to wear them or if they have had some slight changes made to the garments."

"Children have lots of growing up to do. Physical, social, and emotional. Thoughtful parents can help their child do this by making wise choices in clothing."

The second session was Thursday at 1:30 p.m. at city hall. Areva Abernathy, area home economist, Food and Nutrition, discussed "Your Child and His Food".

Barrow Show Plans Made

NEW MADRID -- Plans and preparations are being made for the 4-H Club barrow show April 6, sponsored annually by the Rotary Club.

Herman Crisler, chairman of the float committee, announced the club would award $50 for the best float, $35 for second place and $15 for third.

The parade committee is composed of Bob Seemann, chairman, and Dick Bartlett, Leroy Nunn and Jim Helms.

According to legend, the first king of Britain was Brut, or Brutus, reputed to be the great-grandson of Aeneas, legendary Trojan hero.

Increased Cotton Use Would End Crop Woes

By K. M. Streeter
Missouri Board Member
PAINTON -- If we can get enough people to buy and use enough cotton clothing and other items, we won't have to worry about market losses, acreage cuts, or dwindling profits.

The market for textile products is growing by a million bales a year in the United States and even faster abroad. Harness the tools of modern competition -- price, quality, and promotion -- effectively enough, and cotton can claim its share of these markets and areas like Missouri, where cotton is essential to a healthy economy, will benefit accordingly.

This is why the cotton industry is urging stores throughout the Cotton Belt to buy and stock more 100 per cent cotton products and consumers to demand these products.

When we participate in this campaign, we become an important part of the most intensive research and promotion effort in the history of the cotton industry. It is spearheaded by the $8-million allocation of the Cotton Producers Institute. Matching funds, moreover, from outside sources could swell the total to several times the CPI outlay.

CPI will utilize the staff and services of the National Cotton Council to carry out the program, capitalizing on the Council's long experience and eliminating overhead.

Council market research indicates that the appeals of appearance, maintenance, comfort, and durability are most important to consumers of cotton and competing products. Promotion, for which $5.3 million of the $8 million CPI budget is allocated in 1968, will point up these superiorities and hammer constantly on the "Comfortable, Carefree Cotton" theme.

The cotton industry will lay down a barrage of advertising to influence consumers, retailers, garment manufacturers, and textile mills to demand 100 per cent cotton.

To get the maximum impact on the largest number of prospects, approximately 87 per cent of the first year's budget will be spent for magazine and newspaper advertising -- $2,580,316 for more than 200 ads in national magazines and $1,202,144 for sharing 50-50 with local stores the cost of 6,500 newspaper ads.

Heavy promotion of cotton piece goods, clothing, and home furnishings will be continued with the major retail chains such as Sears, Ward, and Penney.

Also planned is the establishment of a central fabric collection where designers and buyers can see and select from a broad range of cotton textiles. The program to acquaint salespeople with cotton's strong points will be stepped up.

Television promotion plans call for 500 network broadcasts where items of "Comfortable, Carefree Cotton" are presented as awards on audience participation shows; live cotton fashion shows sponsored jointly with major stores; and continued production of movies centered around cotton fashions and home furnishings.

In terms of dollars, this promotional surge for cotton can't match the outlays of its giant competitors. When added, however, to cotton's advantages as a fiber and further backed by those who make and distribute cotton products, it can go a long way toward making Missouri cotton and U.S. cotton a lot more competitive.

McClanahan Takes First in Soybean Contest

CARUTHERSVILLE -- The first annual Pemiscot county soybean growers banquet was held at the First State Bank.

The banquet was sponsored by the Missouri Farmers Association, Production Credit Association, The First State Bank, The National Bank, The Bank of Hayti, The Missouri Delta Bank, and The Bank of Steele.

Johnny McClanahan of Caruthersville took first place in the 1967 soybean field contest and received $100. He had a plot of 7.1 acres of soybeans, and his yield was 52.76 bushels.

N. H. Whitfield of Caruthersville won second place in the contest and he was given $75. Whitfield had a yield of 49.02 bushels on 8.1 acres of land.

Third place was awarded to Tony Watkins of Bragg City. Watkins had a yield of 48.22 bushels per acre on 5.28 acres of land and he received $50. The three winners also received plaques. Both plaques and money were donated by the Production Credit Association and the five banks in the county.

Speaker at the banquet was Dr. Lee Duclos of the University of Missouri Delta Center in Portageville. Dr. Duclos is a research agronomist at the Delta Center.

Other entrants in the soybean contest were: L. Berry Farms of Holland, Carl Suddarth of Hayti, Gary Bruton of Bragg City, Pinnell Capehart of Holland, and the Dolphin Land Company of Steele. Another entrant, Wesley Cole of Pascola, was not checked at harvest time. All entrants received framed certificates indicating their yield, acreage, etc.

Girl Scouting Opens Up New Opportunities

A teenage girl can do a lot of things these days that girls her age have never been able to do before, Girl Scout leaders reported during Girl Scout Week.

Next summer, if she's 15, 16, or 17 she may go to a conference on space exploration, she may study theatre or music.

Anita Dumanag, Caruthersville, will attend All-states Encampment; Sheila Topp, Sikeston, will attend Hon-Dal-A-La-Fiesta, where she may investigate the ways Latin American culture has influenced life in the United States; Jan Sargent, Sikeston, is second alternate, and may attend a conference in St. Louis to learn about how to help people who are physically handicapped.

Nancy Helse, Malden, is first alternate for Rockwood, and Laura Doggett, Sikeston, is first alternate for the Hendrick Hudson Round-Up.

Vickie Puckett, Malden; Heather Wilkey, Kennett; Joyce Chastain, Kay Wohlgenuth, Bonnie Turner, Poplar Bluff; Laura Doggett, Prissy Nunnelee, and Sally Mitchell of Sikeston, will be a patrol and participate in the region V Ouchita Rumble. They will camp at Camp Storey on Lake Ouchita near Hot Springs, Ark.

Five Cotton Boll Scouts will participate in a senior safari encampment with 1,000 girls which will be held on a site near Alley Springs State Park. Those selected are Patricia Huff, Sikeston, Marva McDole, Darcy Tuma, Cindy Hartwell, Rose Ann Barbour, Poplar Bluff.

There's one hitch to getting in on any of this off-beat, action packed program for the teenage girls.

She'll have to be a Girl Scout, outstanding enough to be selected to participate in one of national events.

These are a few of the many conference and encampments to which Girl Scouts from all over the country will be going in 1968. They are opportunities for travel to other countries with major expenses paid.

This summer, Cotton Boll Council has been selected to be hostess of a Swedish team of 12 girls and one adult. This group will be in the council six to eight weeks. The stay will include home living, two weeks at Camp Latoka, and perhaps a tour of Missouri.

Ann Landers Free Love Game Criticized

Dear Ann Landers: I just read he letter from "Miss Honest," the high school girl who believes in free love and sees nothing wrong with going to bed with a boy if she "likes him as a person."

That letter could have been written by me, five years ago. I put up the same foolish arguments. Here is how my life turned out, and I am only 22, not in the past five or six years, so he must do the biting in private. Yesterday he was walking around barefooted and I noticed that Buddy's toenails are also very short. They look very much like his fingernails. I asked him if he cuts his toenails with a scissors and he said, NO. What do you make of this? ----

I am so tired of sex I could scream. It used to be the beginning and end of the world and now I hate the thought of it. I realize I am not being fair to Bill and I am sorry.

I talked to my doctor about this and he told me that due to my early promiscuity I have become disoriented sexually and I need psychiatric help. I had to go look up a few words in the dictionary and what it boils down to is that I ran around so much when I was in my early teens that sex lost its value and importance to me and now it is disgusting.

I hope Miss Free Love (and all the other young girls who think they can play this game and get away with it) will learn something from my experience.

Belleve me, Ann, I am, ---PAYING DEARLY

Dear Paying: Thanks for sharing. I hope you will take your doctor's advice. The first step is understanding the problem, and you do, so now get going.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 12-year-old son has been a nall biter since childhood. I don't recall ever seeing Buddy with his fingers in his mouth, at least not in the past five or six years, so he must do the biting in private. Yesterday he was walking around barefooted and I noticed that Buddy's toenails are also very short. They look very much like his fingernails. I asked him if he cuts his toenails with a scissors and he said, NO. What do you make of this? ----

BAFFLED

Dear Baffled: Are you suggesting that your son bites his toenails? This likelihood is highly improbable.

There is a possibility that Buddy has a disease of the nails--both finger and toe--which stunts the growth. Take him to a doctor. If there is no evidence of disease, the boy is probably picking off his toenails and biting his fingernails.

Dear Ann Landers: I happen to be one of those unfortunate people who has terrible handwriting. I just can't seem to get the words down so people can read them.

Recently I sent a note of condolence to a friend whose husband had passed away. It was handwritten. I later heard that I had committed a grave social error. Such notes, I was told, in no uncertain terms, should always be handwritten. What about this? ---PERPLEXED

Dear Per: Better a typewritten note than a handwritten one no one can read.

Give in or lose him... when a guy gives you this line, look out! For tips on how to handle the super sex salesman, check Ann Landers. Read her booklet, "Necking and Petting -- What Are The Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper, enclosing 50¢ in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Clothing First Program Topic At Oran Hall

BLOOMFIELD -- "Focus on You", the series of programs for young homemakers in the Oran area, had the first meeting at the Oran city hall with nine homemakers present.

The programs are being promoted by the Home Economics Extension club.

The first topic was "You and Your Children's Clothing". Jewel Grady, area extension home economist, textiles and clothing, presented the clothing information.

Miss Grady stressed the importance of wise selection of children's clothes and the psychological effect it has on children. She said, "Carefully selected garments help the child to feel more secure, confident, and satisfied. Properly fitted clothes for children are just as important to them as they are to adults. Garments which are too small or too large restrict his activities."

"Important features in clothing for children is newness and color. Many times children may be happy with hand-me-down garments which are new for them if they feel it is a privilege to get to wear them or if they have had some slight changes made to the garments."

"Children have lots of growing up to do. Physical, social, and emotional. Thoughtful parents can help their child do this by making wise choices in clothing."

The second session was Thursday at 1:30 p.m. at city hall. Areva Abernathy, area home economist, Food and Nutrition, discussed "Your Child and His Food".

Today is Saturday, March 16, the 76th day of 1968. There are 290 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1935, Adolf Hitler broke the Versailles Treaty and re-established universal military training in Germany.

On this date:

In 1521, the Portuguese navigator, Ferdinand Magellan, reached the Philippines.

In 1751, the fourth U.S. president, James Madison, was born in Port Conway, Va.

In 1802, an act of Congress authorized the establishment of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

In 1942, it was disclosed that American troops had arrived in Australia.

In 1943, American bombers attacked Japanese installations in the Aleutians.

In 1945, Japanese resistance on Iwo Jima came to an end after one of the bloodiest battles of the Pacific war.

Ten years ago—in elections in Russia, 1,378 unopposed Communist party candidates were elected to the Supreme Soviet Council.

Five years ago—India protested to the United Nations against a provisional border agreement between Pakistan and Communist China.

One year ago—Communist gunners shelled a U.S. merchant ship near Saigon.

John M. Tatum, Mrs. Hopkins Anniston, Dies

ANNISTON -- John Morgan Tatum, 79, a retired farmer, died at 6:15 a.m. today at the home of a daughter.

Born Feb. 7, 1889, at Arlington, Ky., he had lived in Mississippi county since he was eight.

Litter Removal Cost $438,933

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) -- It cost Missouri $438,933 last year just to pick up the litter along the highways, the State Highway Department reported today.

Chief Engineer M. J. Snider appealed to highway users to help cut down this needless expense by not throwing things out of their cars.

"Tossing litter from your automobile," Snider said, "not only takes money away needed for constructive purposes, it mars the beauty of our state. At the same time it creates a potential hazard for the highway traveler as well as the maintenance man, and it can damage costly equipment."

The tons of trash picked up by hand include most everything from nails to car parts, with a few puppies and kittens thrown in.

They include bricks, lumber, tile, wire, clothing, baskets, boxes, mufflers, tailpipes, plastics, rags, iron, tires, tubes and cans and bottles by the thousands.

Elam of Gideon, Mrs. Effie Lintzenich of St. Charles and Mrs. Mabel Smith of Newark, N.J., 19 grandchildren and 35 great-grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Rainey Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Robert McCoy officiating.

Burial will be in the Memorial Park cemetery at Cape Girardeau.

Fausett Director Of Insurance Firm

SPRINGFIELD -- Charles D. Fausett of Sikeston was elected a director of the Mid-West National Life Insurance Company's annual stockholders meeting here.

Executive Vice President Gordon W. Alliston, Secretary-Treasurer J. R. Blevins and President and Board Chairman J. Paul Jones delivered annual reports.

Mrs. Helen Reuber, high school counselor, will be among high school principals and counselors who will learn first hand how their former students made the transition from high school to college at the University of Missouri at Columbia.

The process will come under examination at the 20th annual freshman transition conference in Columbia Tuesday through Wednesday. University officials hope to learn from them how the University can better serve Missouri high school graduates.

The visitors will attend formal programs, have interviews with their former students, visit students in classrooms and residence halls and have free time to spend as they desire. There will be a tour of the Nuclear Research Reactor.

Folk Mass To Be Given at Youth Rally

NEW MADRID -- A folk mass, directed by Mrs. Marybelle Meridith of the Kennett Methodist church, will be the program for the Methodist Youth Fellowship sub-district rally, Monday at 7 p.m.

The ritual for the service will be taken from the Methodist Book of Worship, accompanied by lively stringed instruments. Mrs. Meridith directs an ecumenical group of about 30 youths from Kennett churches in the presentation of the mass.

Senior high youths from Kewanee, Lilbourn, Portageville, Hayward, Morehouse, Gideon, Parma, Clarkton, Malden and Campbell comprise the sub-district. The service is also open to all senior youths of the community. A fellowship hour and refreshments in the educational building will follow the mass.

Katmai National Monument, Alaska's volcanic region, has an area twice that of Delaware.

Surviving are one son, Arlie Lanning, Morehouse; three daughters, Mrs. Albert Harp, Morley; Mrs. David Lauer, Essex; and Miss Minnie Lanning, Lilbourn; 15 grandchildren, 48 great-grandchildren, and four great-great-grandchildren.

Services will be Sunday at 11 a.m. in the Jackson Funeral Chapel, with the Rev. R. C. Martin, pastor of Church of Christ, Smith street, officiating.

Burial will be in the new Morley cemetery.

Bluff to Tap City Funds For Building

POPLAR BLUFF -- The city council passed an ordinance tapping the board of public works for three per cent of its annual gross revenue and authorized an option on 2.49 acres of land owned by Paul and Betty Inman at a price of $28,000.

The revenue from the utility (about $42,000 yearly based on the 1967 gross) and the land are for the proposed civic auditorium. The city's share in the auditorium cost had changed again, now going from $400,000 to $548,879, the council was told.

The passage of the ordinance taking money from the board of public works to pay for the city's share of the auditorium cost was described as "an illegal act" by City Attorney Ted M. Henson, Jr.

Gloria Hendricks Of Morley Dies

ORAN -- Mrs. Gloria Gwendolyn Hendricks, 46, of Morley, died Thursday in a nursing home at Charleston.

Davis Says Meat Inspection Program

May Be Scrapped

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) --

Dexter B. Davis, state commissioner of agriculture, said Thursday he was considering elimination of the meat inspection program because of what he believed was inadequate financing by the Legislature.

"I am seriously considering elimination of the entire program, but I have not yet made a final decision," he said. Davis said he wanted to discuss the situation with Gov. Warren E. Hearnes first.

Davis asked for 110 meat inspectors with the federal government paying half the estimated $1.2 million cost.

He now has 30, but the special session of the Legislature that quit Tuesday authorized only 25. They could be paid no more than $350 a month. Davis wanted a minimum of $500 a month.

Opponents of the meat inspection program called it just a pork barrel project by one of the biggest political patronage agencies of the state.

Davis denied that. He said if the state didn't provide meat inspection for the many small slaughtering plants, the federal Department of Agriculture would move in.
